

Are you missing the gateway to better business?

Then talk to us today about Ericsson Mobility Gateway

Building and maintaining better business today has very much to do with achieving competitive levels of flexibility, productivity and responsiveness to customers. Enterprises and their employees realize that the key lies in mobilizing business communications. In fact, by 2007, 60% of all enterprises will either have, or be interested, in an IP-PBX extension to the mobile phone (source: IDC 2005 Western Europe).

This is the gateway you want

That is why we now offer you Ericsson Mobility Gateway. This is the add-on that enables you to convert the system your enterprise is utilizing into an integrated mobile communications solution. Moreover, all devices can be incorporated into one consolidated IP infrastructure. Its ingenuity lies in the fact that enterprises are able to reap substantial benefits actually on their existing investments.

The gateway to outstanding business benefits

The seamless integration of mobile user groups into the corporate communications environment means that your enterprise can acquire corporate control over the use of individual devices and justify wider mobilization of the workforce. This enables you, for example, to have much better control over the costs of mobile calls. Operational costs are cut down by reducing both the number of devices per employee as well as the supporting infrastructure. And since employees are more available to take calls the first time, call back costs can be minimized.

The gateway to the Ericsson One Phone concept

Your enterprise can capitalize on the Ericsson One Phone concept of mobilizing the workforce. This concept embodies complete integration of your mobile workforce into the corporate communications and IT system. All the while your employees need only one phone with one number. And you are able to effectively control mobile usage and costs.

Your gateway to a brilliant start-up

Ericsson Mobility Gateway is offered to enterprises as a complete start-up pack designed for 100 mobile users. This pack contains all necessary licenses, management and connectivity to support the system and its users. Subsequently, licenses will be available for each new user within the enterprise.

Talk to us today. We'll make sure the gateway to better business stays open for you.

Please contact your Ericsson partner at any time with your enquiries or if you need more information on Ericsson Mobility Gateway.